Clemson vs. Appalachian State September 22, 1990

5 Eric Harmon

"Death Valley" is a long way from the streets of Camden, New Jersey, but both places have taught Eric Harmon some valuable lessons as Annabelle Vaughan explains.

7 Doug Thomas

There have been an incredible number of great athletes who have come from the small town of Hamlet, NC, but Annabelle Vaughan tells us about one who excels in more than just one sport at Clemson.

49 Larry Brinson

Growing up in Miami, FL, running back coach Larry Brinson had a dream; to play in the National Football League. Gregg Prigerson recounts how the coach of Clemson's running backs has accomplished much more than just that.

53 Roger Hinshaw

When Roger Hinshaw came to Clemson, he knew that all games would be big ones, but Sanford Rogers tells us why today's game against Appalachian State has added significance to the Tiger outside linebacker coach.

55 Pearse Tormey

Intangibles are the underlying factor in the success of Clemson soccer All-American Pearse Tormey. Sam Blackman and Mickey Plyler tell us what intangibles have made Tormey one of the top collegiate players in the country.

62 Excellence in the 80's

The Clemson football team finished the decade of the 80's with an 87-25-4 record, the fifth best winning percentage in college football. Tim Bourret takes a look at some of the more memorable Clemson games throughout the decade.

105 Lisa Dillard

This year's IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year is Lisa Dillard, a member of the Tiger women's track team. Mickey Plyler explains why she is the top sprinter in the history of the Clemson women's track program.

112 The Last Word

Everyone loves to hear stories about former Coach Frank Howard who coached his first Clemson game 50 years ago yesterday. Bob Bradley takes us back in time and refreshes our memory about some of the humorous tales of Clemson's own legend.

Familiar Coaches Meet Saturday

Two coaches who have been involved in Division I football as friend and foe will challenge one another Saturday afternoon in Death Valley. Clemson Head Coach Ken Hatfield and Appalachian State Head Coach Jerry Moore have been on opposite sides of the field as head coaches in the Southwest Conference, and have been on the same sideline during Hatfield's head coaching tenure at Arkansas.

"We will both give that extra to get our teams prepared this week because we respect each other so much," said Hatfield. "I know with the off week they will be very well prepared."

"Jerry has been around and knows a lot of systems. He spent many years at Nebraska and some other programs and has learned a great deal."

Hatfield has a 2-0 record against Moore as far as head coaching matchups are concerned. Hatfield's 1984 Arkansas team beat Moore's Texas Tech team 24-0, and the following season the Razorbacks were victorious, 30-7.

Moore went into private business for a couple of years, then went back to the Southwest Conference football wars, this time as a wide receiver coach and recruiting coordinator under Hatfield at Arkansas. During that 1988 season, Moore helped the Razorbacks to a 10-2 season and Southwest Conference title.

The Tiger-Mountaineer tilt will also be interesting for two Clemson assistant coaches. Clemson outside linebacker coach Roger Hinshaw is a 1972 Appalachian State graduate who led the Mountaineers in interceptions his senior year. Tiger defensive line coach Les Herrin was Appalachian State's defensive coordinator in 1980. He became an assistant coach with the Tigers in 1981 and coached against Appalachian State in Clemson's victory in 1984.

One other coaching common denominator in today's game concerns Appalachian State assistant coach Ruffin McNeil. The 1980 East Carolina graduate serves as the outside linebacker coach of the Mountaineers, but was on the Clemson staff in 1985 and 1986 as a graduate assistant.

Mountaineer Update

Appalachian State has been one of the top Division IAA programs in the nation over the last few years. While Clemson has gained quite a bit of notoriety for winning an ACC record 38 games over the last four years, Appalachian State has won 35 games over the last four seasons. The Mountaineers were 9-3 last season in Jerry Moore's first year, but it marked the third time in the last four years that they had reached the nine-win plateau. Over the last five years they have been 28-6-1 in the Southern Conference.

Appalachian State has two representatives on the All-Initials team this year. Sophomore running back J.K. Reaves is one of the best all-around players in the Southern Conference. The all-purpose back who grew up in Duke's backyard (Durham, NC), had just 38 carries for 170 yards as a freshman. But, he has already eclipsed that total in just two games. He has gained 218 yards and scored four touchdowns in the first two games, a 34-24 win over East Tennessee State, and a 23-12 loss at Wake Forest. The cousin of former Nebraska star Doug Dubose is also the club's top receiver with 48 yards on five receptions.

D.J. Campbell is the other sophomore star on offense who goes with the initial moniker. The native of Cleveland, GA was the runnerup Freshman-of-the-Year in the Southern Conference last year. He is 25-45 for 281 yards and just one interception so far this season. We might not see a lot of interceptions when Clemson meets Appalachian State, as Clemson's DeChane Cameron has not thrown any interceptions in his last 66 passes.

Campbell is a fine runner as evidenced by his 10 touchdowns rushing last year. He had three apiece against James Madison and Marshall last year. A fine leader, Campbell had a 4.00 GPA in high school.

Defensively, Appalachian State returns all four starters on the frontline. Avery Hall is the leader. Another sophomore, Hall had 70 tackles and six sacks last year and was a preseason Division I-AA All-America choice. Inside linebacker Dwayne Pelham is another returning All-Southern Conference choice. He had 128 tackles last year, including an incredible eight caused fumbles. The senior, who rushed for over 1500 yards as a high school running back, is the top tackler this season with 21 stops.

Bodine had a career high 12 tackles against Maryland.

Bodine Leads Defensive Line

Clemson junior middle guard Rob Bodine had the best game of his career at Maryland last Saturday. Clemson's first football player from the state of North Dakota had a career high 12 tackles, including two tackles for loss and a quarterback sack. His defensive pressure was a key reason Maryland scored only three points in the second half and did not get into Clemson territory the last 10 minutes of the game.

Bodine is one of the unsung heroes of the Clemson defense. Others receive much of the attention, but the relatively small middle guard (245 pounds) led Clemson in total tackles among down linemen last year with 60, a total that ranked fifth on Clemson's fifth ranked defense. He is doing it again this year with 21 stops in three games.

Bodine's previous career high was eight tackles set last year against.....Maryland. Bodine now has 81 tackles in his 14-game career and 20 have been against the Terps.

Davis Paces Secondary

All-ACC defensive back Dexter Davis had the first multiple interception game of his career when he picked off two passes in Baltimore Memorial Stadium. It was the first time a Tiger had two interceptions in a game since Robert O'Neal turned the trick last year at Duke.

Davis now has six career interceptions to go with 25 career pass deflections. He is now in the top 20 in both interceptions and passes broken up in Clemson history. In fact, he is seventh in Clemson history with 25 pass de-flections and needs just three to move into the number-four slot.

Davis had two interceptions in Baltimore, the last squelched Maryland's last drive.

Gardocki Boots Career Best Field Goal

Clemson junior all-purpose kicker Chris Gardocki booted a 53-yard field goal against Maryland, the longest field goal of his career and the longest by a Tiger in six seasons. Donald Igwebuike, now with the Minnesota Vikings, had a 53-yard field goal against Duke in 1984. Gardocki's boot tied for the fourth longest field goal in Clemson history. The record is held by Obed Ariri, who booted a 57-yarder against Wake Forest in 1977. Gardocki's field goal is also the longest ever by a U.S. citizen. Obed Ariri and Donald Igwebuike are the only players to record a field goal longer than Gardocki and both came to Clemson from Nigeria to play soccer at Clemson. It was only after they got to Clemson that they even saw a football game.

Gardocki now has three field goals over 50 yards in his career, two have taken place against Maryland.

Gardocki's field goal was longest ever by a Clemson player born in the United States.

and one against Maryland. Move over Rocket Ismail.

Thomas now leads the nation in kickoff returns with a 47-yard average and he also paces the ACC in all-purpose running with 132 yards per game. His outstanding receiving has gone unnoticed because of the kickoff returns. But, at Maryland, Thomas also had three catches for 69 yards, including a 37-yarder that was Clemson's longest scrimmage play of the day.

The native of Hamlet, NC is one of Clemson's finest all-around athletes. He is the reigning 55-meter indoor ACC champion in track and participated in both the NCAA indoor and outdoor track championships. He already has been a part of six ACC championship teams, four in track and two in football. Thomas was also a fine baseball player as a youth, he played in the Little League World Series in Williamsport, PA when he was 11-years-old.

Smith Has Record-Setting Day

Clemson wide receiver Terry Smith had nine catches for 84 yards against Maryland, a single game record for a Tiger freshman. The previous record was five catches by Terrance Roulhac against Georgia Tech in 1983. Smith's yardage figure was not a freshman record, however. Ray Williams had 105 yards on four receptions against N.C. State that same season.

Smith's nine catches tied for the sixth highest single game total in Clemson history, regardless of class. It was also the most receptions by a Tiger since 1981. You have to go back to the 1981 Maryland game to find a higher single game total. Perry Tuttle had 10 catches against the Terps that year. Smith now has 14 receptions for the season and is fourth in the ACC in that category with 4.7 per game. Phil Rogers holds the Clemson single game record with 11 receptions against North Carolina in 1965.

Smith is already third on the Clemson freshman single season reception list. He has 14 catches for the season and the record is 19, set by Ray Williams in 1983. Terrance Roulhac had 15 that year and that is the second highest freshman total.

Thomas Sets Kickoff Return Record

Terry Smith was not the only Tiger wide receiver to establish a Clemson record last weekend at Maryland. Senior Doug Thomas, Smith's running mate in the starting lineup, became the first Clemson player in history to return two kickoffs for touchdown in a season and a career. He has a pair of 98-yard returns for touchdown, one against Long Beach State

Among the Clemson football players, offensive guard Eric Harmon is known as E-Rock. The origin of the nickname is uncertain, but there are a myriad of possible explanations.

It could simply come from the fact that Harmon is seldom seen without a set of headphones on, rocking to a steady bass beat. Or perhaps someone saw the 6-1, 282-pounder one day and was awed by the sight of a chest that would challenge Gibraltar. Maybe someone trying to engage him in conversation was met by his unchanging, stony countenance and gave him the name. But more than likely, someone saw Harmon play football and was reminded of a huge boulder rolling down a steep hill.

Or maybe none of those are reasons why Eric Harmon is known as E-Rock, but certainly no one would argue against any of them. Harmon, a first-team All-ACC choice by UPI in 1989, has more career knockdown blocks than any other player on the 1990 squad. Heading into this season, he had 197, just 48 short of the all-time record set by former Tiger All-American John Phillips. He led all offensive linemen in knockdowns in 1989 with 86 and won honorable mention All-American honors from the Football News. He has already started more games at offensive guard than any other player in Clemson history and is a major reason the Tigers were 16th in the nation in rushing offense last season and have ranked in the top-20 nationally in rushing all three of his seasons at Clemson. On the football field, Harmon has definitely been solid as a rock.

Harmon loves football just as most of the young men who dedicate so much time to the sport do, but Harmon also has an appreciation for football because of where it has taken him in his life, or more accurately, what it has taken him away from. Harmon hails from Camden, NJ, a city known for violence and drugs. "Camden was bad when I was in high school," remembers Harmon, "but it wasn't as bad as it is now. I don't walk around too much in Camden because there is a lot of violence going on up there. You might get hit by a stray bullet. That happens a lot. I go out and see some of my old friends and shoot the breeze and let them know that I haven't forgotten about them or where I came from, but then I move on.

"It's out of the ordinary for someone from Camden to go to college and play football. A lot of people think that Camden is it. When I was younger, I guess I was like that too. I really didn't have any goals until my sophomore year after I played organized football. I had never played anything but street football until my freshman year. When I started getting into football, it changed my attitudes about things. It gave me something to focus on and something to work for. A lot of the people that I grew up with didn't have anything like that and they still don't."

Growing up, Eric and his older brother Milton, were pretty much on their own as their mother worked all day, but neither Harmon brother fell into the trap of drugs and violence that snared many of their peers. "When I was younger, my uncle Skeeter used to tell me and my brother about football. There was also this man named Mr. Bostic who used to come by my house and talk about how big me and my brother were. I mean, I wasn't that big - maybe about 195 in the eighth grade, but he told us that we should think about playing football. So when we started high school, we started playing football. I played tackle on one side and Milton played on the other side."

Harmon won plenty of recognition as a prepster, as he was named an honorable mention All-American by The Sporting News while playing both offense and defense. As a senior, he was credited with 103 tackles and nine and a half sacks. In fact, his picture still hangs in the lobby of Woodrow Wilson High School in Camden. "A lot of younger people know me when I go by my high school," says

Harmon. "Some of them have heard of me and have read about my accomplishments in the newspapers and some of them just recognize me from my picture. I've gone back several times since I graduated and talked to some of the people who were getting ready to go off to college and just told them what to expect and tried to help them out. I wish someone had done that for me when I was getting ready for college."

Harmon's sometimes stoic personality is well-suited to his position as an offensive lineman. On the field, he is strictly business. "When I'm playing I can't just let loose and crank it up. I like talking a lot and letting loose of my emotions. I can't do that after a play. When I'm coming out of the huddle, I've got to remember the snap call, the play, the defensive alignment. We can't give the defensive line any edge. You have to think all the time."

Off the field, Eric Harmon becomes E-Rock, and may sometimes get a little unconventional. He can frequently be seen riding a bright red motor scooter, usually with some type of wooden or leather necklace around his neck and always with his headset and dark sunglasses on. "When I'm off the field, I don't hold back. I don't like to be like anyone else. I'm myself and by being myself, I'm different."

And although Eric Harmon is perfectly content to be Eric Harmon, there is one thing he would change about himself if he could. "Education is really important to me now. If I could change anything about myself, I would go back and study hard. When I was growing up, my mom never pushed me to study. It was all up to me. What I'm going to do is go back to the schools back in Camden and try to single out the athletes and just in my own words and in my own way, stress education. It's hard when you go through high school and come to college and the teacher says, 'this is just review, you should have learned it in high school,' and I didn't learn it in high school. I have had a hard time catching up to where I should be and I don't want others to have that problem."

Harmon is definitely one of the senior leaders on the 1990 squad that is touted as one of the best in the nation and is well on his way to continuing the strong tradition of excellent Tiger offensive linemen. His goals for his final season at Clemson are to perhaps win All-American honors and even get a shot to play professional football. And most importantly, he plans to work until he earns his degree, just to ensure that in the future, his success will be as rock-solid as it is today.

Harmon has been a rock on the Clemson offensive line for four seasons.

NIKE

Pick up a pair of Air Boss Sharks and experience life at the top of the food chain.

A great athlete once said that a great athlete was someone who could try his hand in any sport and do well in it. That great athlete should know. In his brief 21 years, he has done well on the baseball diamond, on the basketball court and on the track. And just three weeks ago, in his first collegiate start on the gridiron, he showed 72,500 orange-clad fans what great athletes are made of as he took the Tigers' first kickoff return of the 1990 season 98 yards for a touchdown.

That great athlete is Doug Thomas, the starting flanker for Ken Hatfield's first Clemson squad. Before this season, Thomas played mostly in a reserve role for the Tigers, but he believes his kickoff return and key 29-yard reception on a third-and-21 play versus Long Beach State are just glimpses of things to come. "The kickoff return happened so fast that before I knew it I was in the endzone. Up until now, I've been just another receiver at Clemson," says Thomas. "But now it's my turn to start and hopefully be the one to make some things happen. I have the physical skills that it takes to be a good receiver - speed and quickness - and I think that with my experience, I also have the know-how now."

Speed and quickness have not only given Thomas the potential to be a great athlete in a helmet and shoulder pads, but have given him success when he puts on his running shoes. He has run a 4.32 on the track in the 40-yard dash, a time which ties for the fastest on the Tiger football squad since coaches began keeping test data. Thomas was also a two-time ACC Champion in track in 1990 for Clemson's conference champion indoor and outdoor track squads. Not only did Thomas beat out all of the competition in the 55 meters at the indoor championships, but he set a new ACC meet record in the trials of that event as he clocked in at 6.21 and qualified for the NCAA meet. Outdoors, he ran the lead-off leg of the Tigers' 4x100 meter relay squad made up of four football players that won the conference title. In high school, Thomas was a member of a 4x100 meter relay team that set a world-record for 17 and 18-year-olds in addition to playing basketball, baseball and football.

His athletic ability also manifested itself on the baseball diamond fairly early in his life. Doug's father had been a baseball player and had even been drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates. When Thomas was only 11-years-old, his little league team from Hamlet, NC, travelled to Williamsport, PA, to play Puerto Rico in the Little League World Series. "I played catcher and my brother John, who was 12 at the time, was pitching," Thomas remembers. "We were ahead going into the last inning, but we made some errors and ended up losing the game. If we had won that game, we would have advanced to the finals."

Although 11 years old seems mighty young for a child to be involved in such a high level of competition, Thomas was a seasoned veteran at that age. "When I was around five-years-old, I used to always go down to the recreation center and play ping-pong. One day they put a sign up for a Pop Warner league and I went home and told my daddy. He said no at first because he didn't know anything about it, but he went down and read the sign and carried us to the tryouts. They had one big tryout on a Saturday and then they had a draft that Monday when all the coaches took the players they wanted. I got drafted and have been playing football ever since. We played football on Saturday and Wednesday nights. Basketball was on Saturday mornings and Tuesday nights. Baseball was on Mondays, Tuesdays and Saturdays."

Thomas played quarterback, tailback and free safety in those days, but it did not take him long to discover the speed that would one day make him a college wide receiver. "We used to race on this big lot and it seemed like I would always win. I knew I was faster than most of the guys, but I never took my speed into consideration until I was in high school and realized what it could do for me."

Although Thomas was a great high school player in his own right, he drew the attention of college recruiters when they came to watch his older brother John play. During John's senior year at quarterback, Doug had 13 touchdown receptions to set a new Richmond High School record. The night the Clemson coaches came to watch John play, Doug had two TD catches. John Doug Thomas became just the sixth Clemson player to score a touchdown on a kickoff return when he raced 98 yards against Long Beach State. He currently leads the nation in kickoff returns.

Thomas ended up attending the University of South Carolina where he played football and baseball. The next season, younger brother Doug broke his ankle in the third game and missed the rest of the year.

"It set me back a good bit when I broke my ankle," says Thomas, "but I just concentrated on track instead that year. I guess it paid off because when my senior year was over, Clemson wanted me to come to school on a track scholarship and the football coaches still wanted me too. I decided to play football and then run track in the off-season and have the best of both worlds."

As a reserve wide receiver in his first two years of competition, Thomas became known for his speed and fast became a threat on the end-around play. He had a 35-yard gain on a reverse versus Maryland in 1987 and gained 47 yards on the same play the next year against Duke. Last season, he became known as a kickoff returner, leading the team in that category with a 20.8 yard average. Meanwhile, his brother John, better known as "Skeets" Thomas by South Carolina Gamecock fans, was making a name for himself with USC's baseball team. Skeets was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals and is now playing baseball on the AA level.

It seems that in a town the size of Hamlet, NC, ("it's probably the size of Clemson and Central combined," says Thomas) that the Thomas brothers would be the main attraction as both have taken their ability from Pop Warner and Little League, to the major college level and even into the professional ranks. But oddly enough, the Thomas brothers are just a couple of great athletes on a long list to come out of Hamlet. "Being a college football player is not that big a deal in Hamlet," laughs Thomas. "My cousin, Mike Quick, is an all-pro player for the Philadelphia Eagles and that's a much bigger deal. Franklin Stubbs, who played baseball for the Dodgers and now plays for the Astros is from Hamlet. Perry Williams, the starting cornerback for the New York Giants is from Hamlet. Louis Breedin, who played for the Cincinnati Bengals is from Hamlet and Ed Marshall, another guy from Hamlet, is playing AAA ball for the New York Yankees. I could have returned that kickoff on national TV, but I would still have a long way to go to be the head honcho at home!"

Doug Thomas hopes that the 1990 season will give him many more opportunities to display his athleticism as he did in the season opener. "The speed and quickness are there and have been there for a while," he says. "This year I have the know-how because I have learned so much since I began to play football. But more importantly, I have the desire to play hard and to make things happen. There is a tradition of athletes in my family and in my hometown and that desire is what has made them great."

President Max Lennon

In the four years Max Lennon has been president of Clemson, the university has become one of the nation's top 100 research universities (according to the National Science Foundation), launched its largest fundraising campaign ever, and entered its second century. But no single event during his administration may have been more important than this year's emphasis on strategic planning.

At Lennon's directive, during the past year Clemson faculty, staff and administrators have developed a blueprint for Clemson's future. As a result, Clemson enters the 1990's better prepared than ever to serve the state's needs as South Carolina's land-grant university.

The strategic plan calls for increased emphasis on undergraduate education, the environment, advanced materials, and biotechnology—areas Lennon considers critical to the state's future.

"There is an urgent need to develop a campus consensus about university priorities, and that's been the goal of our academic strategic planning process," Lennon said. "This year-long, faculty-driven process has defined four areas where we should devote greater resources, because they are areas in which we are convinced we can be a leader."

Evidence of the potential for leadership in the 1990s already is emerging, particularly in environmental sciences, to be the focus of a $10 million research initiative launched by the university in 1990. Lennon also sees potential for national leadership in innovative public-service programs, such as those in agriculture, engineering and other disciplines that enabled Clemson to help South Carolina recover from the devastation of Hurricane Hugo.

"Our goal is to become the model among land-grant universities by providing education with relevance," he said.

"As a land grant college, we have an obligation to rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon came to Clemson from The Ohio State University, where he had been the vice-president for agricultural administration and executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's Commission on Agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agriculture Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, N.C., and earned his bachelor's degree and doctorate from N. C. State.

"Our goal is to become the model among land-grant universities by providing education with relevance."

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local Rotary Club and the South Carolina Research Authority to the Board of Directors of EARTH in Costa Rica which aims through education and investments aims to improve third world agriculture.

In the fall of 1987, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He will serve a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed in 1988 to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBio-tech 88 international conference in Washington.

Last year Lennon was appointed to chair a committee of top administrators and federal officials from 11 universities across the nation to work with congress on legislation relating to foreign assistance and international development. The committee is a project of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (28), and Robin (25).

Under Lennon's leadership, Clemson has become one of the nation's top 100 research universities.

Head Coach Ken Hatfield

Facing challenges head on: that might be Ken Hatfield's most significant asset. It has helped him in all walks of life, but especially when it comes to football.

As a player, he helped Arkansas face every challenge in 1964, when the Razorbacks had an 11-0 season and won the national title. As an assistant coach at Tennessee and Florida, he moulded countless players into top-notch athletes who competed for Southeastern Conference titles, played in seven bowl games in a 10-year period, and ranked in the final top-20 five times.

As a head coach, he took a dormant Air Force program to a number-13 national ranking and a pair of bowl wins. He continued to meet the challenges at Arkansas, his alma mater, guiding the Razorbacks to back-to-back Southwest Conference titles, something that had not been done at Arkansas since Hatfield was a player.

And now he faces another challenge at Clemson. His charge is to continue Clemson's contemporary excellence (only Nebraska and Miami had fewer losses in the decade of the eighties). But if Hatfield's track record for meeting challenges is any indication, Clemson football is in good hands entering the 1990s.

That track record has included eight straight trips to post-season bowls, including major bowl appearances in three of the last four years. Hatfield is one of just four active coaches to take a team to a bowl each of the last eight years. He is in noteworthy company as the other members of that exclusive club are Tom Osborne (Nebraska), Pat Dye (Auburn) and Bobby Bowden (Florida State).

Hatfield has an overall record of 82-48-2 (.629), but he has won 77 percent of his games over the last seven seasons (65-19-1). At Arkansas, he posted a record of 55-17-1 over six seasons, a .760 winning percentage. That percentage is second best in Southwest Conference history as only Darrell Royal (Texas 1957-76) had a better percentage. Hatfield's SWC winning percentage was higher than 11 former SWC coaches who are in the College Football Hall of Fame, including Bear Bryant, Frank Broyles, Jess Neely, and John Heisman.

The native of Helena, Arkansas, played in two bowl games with the Razorbacks, coached in seven post-season games as an assistant and has been the head coach in eight bowls. Five times he has coached a team to a top 15 final ranking in the AP poll, and he played on two other top 15 teams.

Hatfield-coached clubs have excelled offensively and defensively, but they have been particularly successful in rushing offense and defense. Each of his last eight teams have finished in the top 20 nationally in rushing offense, including five top 10 finishes. His 1983 Air Force team was second in the finer points of the game. It is one reason he was named the third best teaching coach in college football by Inside Sports Magazine last summer. Hatfield began his coaching career immediately after graduation. In the fall of 1965, he served as an assistant coach at Helena-West Helena High School in Arkansas. In 1966, he moved to West Point, where he served as freshman coach for two seasons. His 1967 club posted a 9-0 record.

After the two-year stint at Army, he served as an assistant coach at Tennessee for three years (1968-70). The Volunteers went to post-season bowls all three seasons (including two major bowls), won a conference title and ranked in the final top 20 of the AP poll all three seasons, including a number-four ranking in 1970.

In 1971, Hatfield began a seven-year stint at the University of Florida, spending four seasons as a defensive backfield coach and three as an offensive backfield mentor. Florida played in four bowl games during his career in Gainesville and two more Gator teams finished in the AP top 20, including the 1974 team that played Nebraska in the Sugar Bowl.

Hatfield became offensive coordinator at the Air Force Academy under current New York Giants Head Coach Bill Parcells in 1978. A year later, Parcells was wooed to the Big Apple and Hatfield became the Falcons' head coach. The Air Force program had not had a winning season since 1973. But by his fourth season, Hatfield had an eight-game winner, led Air Force to its first-ever victory over Notre Dame, and had taken the Falcons to a post-season bowl for the first time since 1971.

In 1983, Hatfield was named national Coach-of-the-Year by the Football Coaches Association (Bobby Dodd Award) after leading Air Force to a 10-2 season that included wins over Notre Dame, Navy and a bowl victory over Mississippi. It was the Academy's first-ever win over Notre Dame in South Bend.

The next year, Hatfield succeeded Lou Holtz at Arkansas, where he would take his alma mater to 55 wins in six seasons, six bowl appearances and four final top-15 rankings. His 1985 club finished with a 10-2 mark and number-12 national ranking, the Razor-in the nation in rushing.

Two of his last four Arkansas teams finished in the top three in the country in turnover margin, including his 1988 team that was first in the nation (Clemson was second that same year). Defensively, his clubs have finished in the top 15 in the nation in rushing defense five of the last six years.

backs' first Top 20 finish since 1982. Four times the Razorbacks rallied from fourth quarter deficits to gain victory.

The 1986 campaign was another year of success with highlight victories over a nationally ranked Texas A&M club and the Razorbacks' first win in 20 years at Texas. Arkansas advanced to the Orange Bowl and finished 15th in the final AP poll.

Arkansas won the 1988 and 1989 Southwest Conference Championship and the Razorbacks never finished lower than second in his six years at Fayetteville. He was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Year in 1988 as he took the Razorbacks to the league title and a 10-0 start. Miami (FL) defeated Arkansas 18-16 in the Orange Bowl to stop the streak. Seven players off the 1988 club (all recruited by Hatfield) were drafted by the NFL, an Arkansas single draft record.

After last season's 10-2 ledger and second straight SWC championship, Hatfield was named Southwest Conference Coach-of-the-Decade by the Houston Post. Included in the victories was a triumph over a top-15 Houston team and Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware.

Hatfield has also had success off the field. A recent release by the CFA cited his 1989 Arkansas class for excellence in terms of graduation rate (over 75 percent), one of the top 10 figures in the nation.

"Football is a part of a young man's education. He learns about himself by playing football," states Hatfield. "It gives him a perspective of how to handle defeat as well as victory. Our success at Clemson will be reflected in the lives of our players after they leave Clemson University. We want to help make them the best people they can be. We want to maximize their potential. That is our challenge."

These statements were certainly watchwords for Hatfield as a player and these experiences have helped him in his relationship with his players. Hatfield played for three years at Arkansas (1962-64) and he was a starter on the National Championship team of 1964. A defensive back by trade, he earned his fame as the nation's top punt returner in 1963 and 1964. He also finished as the runner-up as a sophomore and is still the only college football player to finish in the top two in the nation in punt returns three straight seasons.

His most memorable play took place against Texas in 1964 when he raced 81 yards with a punt return for a touchdown in Arkansas' thrilling 14-13 victory. It was the key victory in the Razorbacks' championship season. Altogether, Hatfield scored five TDs via punt returns in his career, including an Arkansas record 95-yard return against Tulsa in 1963.

An accounting major who earned his diploma in the spring of 1965, Hatfield was an Academic All-American in 1964 and was the recipient of the Swartz Award, presented annually to the top student-athlete at Arkansas. The 1964 All-SWC selection was inducted into the Arkansas Sports Hall of Fame in 1989.

Assistant Coaches

WALLY AKE is responsible for coaching Tiger inside linebackers, the same position he held at Arkansas in 1989. Ake also spent several years coaching the Razorback defensive line (1984-88), and was the defensive line coach at Air Force for three seasons (1981-83). He spent the 1980 season as a graduate assistant coach at Arkansas where he worked with tight ends and he was the linebacker coach at William & Mary in 1979. The Hawthorne, VA native was a three-year letterman in football at William & Mary and won all-conference honors as a junior and second-team honors during his senior season. He has coached three All-America players, Wayne Martin (DE, Arkansas), Tony Cherico (NG, Arkansas), and Chris Funk (DT, Air Force), and has coached one or more all-conference players each year of his coaching career. Arkansas ranked fourth in the nation in rushing defense in 1988, seventh in 1987, 13th in 1985, and 14th in 1984, seasons in which Ake was the defensive line coach. Responsible for recruiting Maryland, Virginia, parts of Georgia and Texas, and the Washington, D.C. areas, Ake earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from William & Mary in 1972.

LARRY BECKMAN works with the Tiger offensive line, concentrating mainly on the tackles and centers after spending six years as the offensive line coach at Arkansas (1984-89). He also spent several years at Air Force, where he was the offensive line coach from 1981-83 and worked with the tight ends and special teams in 1980. Previous to his stint at Air Force, Beckman was the offensive line coach at East Tennessee State (1976-78) and worked at his alma mater, the University of Florida, as a junior varsity assistant (1975) and as a graduate assistant in 1966. He was an all-Florida defensive end in high school at Miami Edison and lettered three years at offensive guard at Florida, where he was an All-Southeastern Conference choice and an honorable mention All-American in 1965. Beckman also served as captain of the 1965 Gator squad. Since 1982, he has coached in eight straight bowl games and Arkansas ranked in the top-20 in the nation in rushing all six years he coached the offensive line. Beckman earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from Florida in 1966 and his master's in the same field in 1967. His recruiting territory includes Alabama, and parts of Texas and Florida.

ranks. He rushed for 1,105 career yards and nine touchdowns with the Gators before spending three seasons with the Dallas Cowboys, where he was a member of the 1977 and 1978 Super Bowl teams. Statistically with the Cowboys, Brinson rushed for 124 yards on 26 attempts and gaining 502 yards on 23 kickoff returns. A Waycross, GA, native, Herrin earned his bachelor's and master's degree from Western Carolina where he was a four-year letterman in football and a team captain. During his first two years at Clemson, the Tigers ranked in the top 10 in scoring and rushing defense. Herrin also coached ACC MVP Jeff Davis, who went on to be captain of the Tampa Bay Bucs and 1989 All-Pro Johnny Rembert of the New England Patriots. Clemson ranked in the top-10 in scoring and rushing defense his first two years at Clemson and last season ranked fifth in the nation in scoring, rushing and total defense.

He coached Kerry Owens, currently with the Cleveland Browns, while at Arkansas, where the Razorbacks ranked in the top 20 in the nation in rushing defense four of his six years. Hinshaw's recruiting responsibilities include the state of Louisiana, and parts of North Carolina and South Carolina.

RICK STOCKSTILL is in his second season with the Tigers after joining the Clemson coaching staff in February of 1989. Stockstill came to Clemson from the University of Central Florida, where he spent four years as assistant head coach and wide receiver coach (1985-89). Stockstill was also a 1980 and 1981 All-Southern Independent and All-Metro Conference performer for FSU. He received his bachelor's degree in physical education from Florida State in 1982, where he was an honorable mention All-American. FSU was ranked sixth nationally in 1979 and fifth in 1980. In his first season with the Tiger coaching staff as quarterbacks coach, Clemson set a school record for completion percentage (60%).

BOB TROTT serves as the Tigers' defensive coordinator in addition to coaching the defensive secondary. He spent the 1989 season as the defensive coordinator at Arkansas, where he was also the defensive back coach from 1984 to 1988. Prior to working with the Razorbacks, Trott was the defensive back coach at Air Force for three seasons (1981-83), and worked with the Falcon outside linebackers for three seasons (1978-80). He was also a part-time assistant coach at North Carolina in 1976 and 1977. Trott was a three-year letterman at the University of North Carolina and won academic All-ACC honors as a senior. He has coached five professional players: Kevin Wyatt (Miami), Greg Lasker (N.Y. Giants), Steve Atwater (Denver), Anthony Cooney and Richard Brothers (Chicago). Ninety-five percent of the players he coached at Arkansas received their degrees. Trott earned his bachelor's degree in business from North Carolina in 1976 and his master's in teaching in 1982. He is responsible for recruiting Tennessee, and areas in North Carolina and South Carolina.

LARRY VAN DER HEYDEN has been at Clemson longer than any other coach on the 1990 staff after joining the Tigers on January 5, 1979. The Brazil, Iowa native coaches the offensive line and is in his first season as the Tigers' offensive coordinator. He came to Clemson after coaching at Memphis State (1975-78), where he served as offensive coordinator, Virginia (1974-75), East Carolina (1973-74), Indiana State (1969-73), and Drake University (1968-69). Van Der Heyden coached the defensive line at his alma mater, Iowa State, from 1965 to 1967, and served as a graduate assistant coach there in 1964. He is a member of the all-time Iowa State team, selected by former players and coaches, and was a member of the Big Eight all-conference team and the captain of the baseball team in 1961. He also won the Reuben Miller Award for Most Valuable Player on and off the field at Iowa State that same year. Van Der Heyden earned three letters in both football and baseball from Iowa State and received a bachelor's degree in physical education (1962) and a master's degree in education (1968) from the same institution. He has coached three All-America guards over the last seven years at Clemson and for a five-year period (1983-87), one of his guards was chosen All-ACC. The Hope, AR, native played one year at Central Arkansas for the National Championship team and spent three years as a player at Arkansas, where he saw action in the secondary and on special teams and played on the 1980 Sugar Bowl team. He coached two professional players while at Missouri, Eric McMillan (N.Y. Jets) and Robert Delphino (L.A. Rams) and Arkansas was 11th in the nation in total offense his only year with the Razorbacks. Wilson earned a bachelor's degree in education from Arkansas in 1981 and received a master's in sports management from Missouri in 1985.

Clemson Coaches

In addition to the success enjoyed by the 12th-ranked 1989 football squad, nine other Clemson sports ranked in the final top 25 nationally for the 1989-90 sports year. Clemson was the only school in the nation that won a bowl game, an NCAA Tournament basketball game and an NCAA tournament baseball game in the 1989-90 year. It marked the second straight year that Clemson has pulled off this triple play. Clemson and Illinois were the only schools in the nation to participate in all three of those postseason events.

Three Tiger sports programs won conference championships as the men's indoor and outdoor track teams won the ACC Championship and the Tiger golf squad tied for first in the conference. The Tigers boasted 82 first-team All-ACC players last year, a new school record, and 20 Clemson athletes won All-America honors.

Both of Clemson's basketball teams advanced to the Sweet 16 of their respective NCAA tournaments. Clemson was one of only three programs to have both teams in the Sweet 16. Clemson also had two conference MVPs in spring sports as centerfielder Brian Kowitz won the honor in baseball and James Trapp was the MVP of the outdoor track season. Philip Greyling was the Tigers' third conference MVP, winning honors for indoor track.

Three Clemson coaches were named ACC Coach-of-the-Year in four different sports, as Bob Pollock won honors for the indoor and outdoor track seasons, along with Jim Davis (women's basketball) and Cliff Ellis (men's basketball).

GREAT RECEPTION.

When it comes to the excitement of Atlantic Coast Conference Football, the next best thing to being there in person is watching our complete, comprehensive and state of the art production on television.

For the seventh consecutive year, JP Sports brings you the up-close action of twelve ACC games. No wonder ACC Football is the most watched regional collegiate TV network in the U.S.

In addition to ACC Football, look for other JP Sports programming, such as ACC Basketball, SEC Basketball and Great American Independent Football, a coalition of some of the strongest independent football teams in the country, just to name a few.

Just clip this ACC schedule and check local listings for the station carrying the games you want to see.

Then, if you don't get tickets to the game, you can get great reception at home.

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing- there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow ... and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen to twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through."

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,568 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled- the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian College coach, Lonnie McMillian. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillian said the place was like Death Valley.

A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house."

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. A unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Rick Brewer, an official in the University athletic ticket office says that despite the stadium's large size, there are still season ticket problems. "When the second upper deck was built, we thought it would take care of everything," he said. "To our dismay, it hasn't. We've filled the upper decks and have moved season ticket holders into the end zone, which are not permanent seats."

Despite the apparent ticket crunch, Robinson says there are no immediate plans to further expand the stadium. "Before we expand we'll have to show over an extended length of time- like five to seven years- that we can sell out what we have now," he said. "We don't want supply to greatly exceed demand. Even though it's hard to get tickets now, we still get people in our stadium. The ticket means more if it's harder to get."

But, if Memorial Stadium is expanded again and capacity is pushed closer to 100,000, there will be room for the construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horse-shoe.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Clemson Memorial Stadium has over 100 luxury boxes, more than any other on-campus facility in the nation. Clemson's message board keeps fans up to date with other scores and stats, and also projects player's pictures after an outstanding play.

And our bright, energy-efficient outdoor lighting helps protect your home after dark.

SCE&G's team of experts also helps residential customers, businesses and industries identify ways to conserve energy and maintain productivity.

Through the use of Energy Extras, you'll help conserve energy resources and reduce the need to build new electric generating plants.

To a young boy growing up in Miami, thoughts of playing in the Super Bowl may seem to be only an impossible dream. However, if you have the desire, drive, and of course the talent of a Larry Brinson, then that dream becomes a more realistic goal.

Larry Brinson, the running backs coach at Clemson, has a long and impressive list of accomplishments as a player and coach under his belt. As a player, Brinson lettered four years as a running back at the University of Florida where he compiled 1,105 yards rushing and nine touchdowns in his career. In addition, Brinson and the Gators participated in four consecutive post-season affairs. Brinson's pro career can claim participation in the 1978 and 1979 Super Bowls with the Dallas Cowboys. In the 1978 season, Brinson earned a Championship ring as the Cowboys went on to capture the Super Bowl Crown. The next stop for Brinson was Seattle, where he played two years for the Seahawks (1980-81) before suffering a career-ending knee injury.

Larry Brinson's coaching career is equally as impressive. Brinson served as running backs coach at both The Air Force Academy and at Arkansas before coming to Clemson, and his teams have competed in seven post-season games.

"Football has always been my first love," says Brinson. "Growing up I can remember sitting in front of the television on Sundays watching NFL highlight films, dreaming that someday I would be on the films myself. Of course I could not watch the T.V. for too long because my mom would always drag me away to take me to church."

Brinson's family can take some of the credit for where he is today. "My brother and I were fierce competitors as kids. We used to lace up a pair of boxing gloves and slug each other until my mother came to break it up. Of course it was all just for fun. We competed in many sports as kids. He was a track star who wound up earning a scholarship to Morris Brown College in Atlanta, Georgia. He made me really tough."

During his senior year of high school, Brinson had many college scouts drooling over his talents, and the phone calls began to pour in. "I was very lucky to be recruited by so many colleges. These included the University of Miami, Illinois, Iowa, Florida, Florida State, Georgia, and Georgia Tech. I enjoyed traveling to all of the schools at first, but after the first couple of trips I was getting quite tired of it. I narrowed my choices to two schools, Florida State and the University of Florida. When all was said and done, I chose the University of Florida because I wanted to stay close enough to home so that my parents could attend some of my games. I also had many buddies at Florida State and I felt if I went there my grades would suffer."

In his senior year at Florida, Brinson's running back coach was none other than Clemson head football coach Ken Hatfield. "I could say so much about Coach Hatfield. He is a great person and a close personal friend. The best thing I could say is that for as long I have known him, he has never let success go to his head. He has always been the same person. He taught me to treat people right, and they will do the same to you."

So far, the 1990 year has been a very exciting and busy time for Coach Brinson. When Clemson was searching for a new head football coach, Brinson remembers Hatfield coming to him to talk about the possibility of going to Clemson. "When he mentioned the idea to me, I was very excited, and when the time did arrive, I did not hesitate at all. My wife Pat and my five-year-old son Cody were also very excited with the news. When I first told them, my little boy was jumping up and down as though it was Christmas. My wife and I are both from Florida and it was an opportunity for us to get closer to home."

Brinson not only had to make a transition from the Ozarks to the Blue Ridge, but also from the Southwest Conference to the Atlantic Coast Conference. "I think both of the conferences are very competitive. However, there is a different mentality in the conferences. It seems that the level of competition is slightly higher in the ACC."

As intense as Brinson is on the sidelines, he knows how to get away from the stress and pressures of coaching. "Give me a rod and some fish, and I am the happiest man in the world. I am a fisherman through and through. I love Lake Hartwell, and I have fished in it a few times already. I have even caught some good-size fish."

Having already had his childhood dream of playing in and winning the Super Bowl realized, Larry Brinson can now focus in on another dream: coaching a National Championship team. With Brinson on the sidelines, the Tiger's will certainly make the "run" to fulfill that dream.

Clemson running back coach Larry Brinson played in two Super Bowls with the Dallas Cowboys.

When Roger Hinshaw came to Clemson this past January he realized the Tigers were the fifth best winning team in the nation in the decade of the eighties, so he knew every game would be big. Not only would the Tigers be battling to regain their conference title from formidable opponents such as Virginia, N.C. State, Duke, Maryland and Georgia Tech, but they would also be battling traditional rivals as Georgia and South Carolina. But, when Roger Hinshaw looked at the schedule back in January, he knew today's game against Appalachian State may have more significance than the others.

Hinshaw played defensive back at Appalachian State and during his senior year he led the Mountaineers in interceptions. When asked about the game against his alma mater, Hinshaw states that it is an important game for several different reasons. "Coach Jerry Moore, who is the head coach at Appalachian State, was on our staff at Arkansas for a year. We think a great deal of him as a person and as a coach. The most important thing to remember is that our job is to win the football game, that is what we get paid to do. But that doesn't mean we don't have a great deal of respect for the opponent."

Roger Hinshaw grew up in Burlington, North Carolina. During his high school years at Walter Williams High School he was always involved in sports.

"I was heavily involved in all sports during my high school career, but football was my love and joy", said Hinshaw. "I started playing in the Elk's Club Midget League and have been associated with the game since then."

It would come as no surprise that when he reached college he realized he wanted to coach after his playing days were over. He received his undergraduate and graduate degrees in physical education. From there Hinshaw began his college coaching in 1979 at Livingston College in Livingston, Alabama, serving as defensive coordinator. From there, he joined Coach Ken Hatfield at The Air Force Academy in 1983. He moved to Arkansas in 1984 to serve in the role he does at Clemson: outside linebacker coach.

Getting a top Division I football coaching position was not as easy as some would think, especially for Hinshaw.

"I was trying to move on from Livingston College in Alabama for some time and I knew that Coach Hatfield had an opening on his staff. Fisher DeBerry, who worked under Ken at the time, knew me pretty well because Fisher was my coach at Appalachian State. Air Force was playing Vanderbilt in the 1982 Hall of Fame Bowl in Birmingham so I got in my car and drove up to try to talk to Ken, but we could not get together. Later I decided to take a job in Stockton, CA with the University of Pacific. I walked into the head coaches office and shook his hand and said, 'glad to be working with you coach'. While I was shaking his hand, the phone rang and it was my wife Lynn. I thought something was wrong, but she told me Ken Hatfield was looking for me because he wanted to offer me a job at Air Force. I took care of some things at Pacific and have been with Coach Hatfield ever since."

"Roger has been a fine coach and recruiter for me dating back to the days when we were at Air Force," said Head Football Coach Ken Hatfield. "He is a great joy to work with because he always puts people at ease."

Since Hinshaw grew up in relatively nearby Burlington, he is familiar with the Clemson tradition although they differ from those he has now. "Growing up in the Tobacco Road section of North Carolina, I was more of a Tar Heel basketball fan than anything else. But later on when I started looking at which schools had quality football programs, Clemson was high on my list."

This opinion stayed with Hinshaw during his early years as a coach and was a reason he did not hesitate to follow when Ken Hatfield took the job at Clemson. When Hinshaw became a Clemson coach, he inherited a group that is perhaps the best of its kind in the nation. The preseason issue of The Sporting News rated them as the best in the nation. When Hinshaw began to work with these players, it did not take him long to realize that his players definitely lived up to their reputation.

"They are really fun to watch," says Hinshaw. "Sometimes I am amazed at their athletic ability. The thing that impresses me the most is that you can only prepare a group for so much, but this group can adjust to things that we have not even covered."

"All of them are so good that I think you could give them all the same uniform number and you would not know who was playing. They are that similar in ability."

To be successful, a college football coach has to put in a great number of hours. The morning this writer arrived at 7:30 a.m. to conduct the interview, Hinshaw had already been in his office for about two hours reviewing film of the following opponent. But, what does a coach Hinshaw do to get away from the grind of coaching, recruiting and film work? Besides loving to spending time with wife Lynn and daughters Beth (9), Lindsey (6), and Jaime (4), Hinshaw is an avid golfer, a pretty good one at that (a 12-handicap), and enjoys spending time with his clubs. In fact, last spring, before his wife and children moved from Arkansas to Clemson, he was a frequent visitor to the practice putting green next to the Clemson football fields.

"I probably improved the most at my golf game this past summer. My family was still in Arkansas and after practice I would head to the range by the practice fields. I went from a golfer who sliced all the time to one who slices just sometimes. I really enjoy golf and football, but the something that is very important to me is my family."

But it would be safe to say that Roger Hinshaw would rather be coaching a talented group of linebackers in an important game than being a weekend duffer. There is definitely no other place Coach Hinshaw would rather be this afternoon than "Running Down the Hill" in front of 80,000 screaming Tiger fans and coaching against his alma mater.

In many sports, once an athlete reaches a certain level, the talent of each competitor does not vary greatly.

In college soccer, many of its participants are equally talented and some intangibles separate the better players.

For Clemson's Pearse Tormey, desire, dedication, and attitude are the intangibles that have enabled him to be one of the best players in the American college scene. Evidence of this was being named All-American and first-team all-league in the highly competitive Atlantic Coast Conference in 1989.

Tormey is one of the finest soccer players in Clemson history as he is gradually climbing the school's career record charts. Entering the 1990 season, Tormey was tied for fourth in assists (27) and 12th for most goals scored (35).

His desire, dedication, attitude and ability to adapt are products of his Irish background. He came to Clemson from Drogheda, Ireland in 1987 and helped lead the Tigers to their second national championship in four years as a freshman.

Clemson soccer fans remember him best for his tremendous play in the NCAA Tournament in 1987. He started all five games and finished with three goals and three assists. In the semifinal match, Tormey scored two goals and had one assist in the Tigers' 4-1 win over North Carolina. He also assisted Bruce Murray on the game-winning goal to upset top-ranked Indiana, and scored Clemson's first goal of the playoffs versus Evansville.

One of the reasons Tormey chose Clemson was because it reminded him of his home—a quiet, friendly atmosphere that allowed him to grow as a person.

"In the summer of 1987, I was looking for different ways of coming to America," said Tormey, a senior forward on the 1990 team.

"I had a strong desire to play collegiate soccer in America. My father reached Coach (I.M.) Ibrahim and found out they were offering scholarships," continued Tormey.

"In April of 1987, John Rootes (then an assistant soccer coach at Clemson) came over to Ireland. He watched us practice and came to two or three of our games. He later offered me a full scholarship to come to Clemson.

"I had to choose between a couple of colleges in New York and Clemson. I decided Clemson would be the place for me. Clemson is similar to my hometown, Drogheda, as it's small and quiet. In my hometown, I lived in a city of 22,000 people and everybody is friendly like Clemson. In both places, everything is within walking distance and the atmosphere is great.

"I am very thankful to Coach Ibrahim for giving me the opportunity to play soccer at Clemson and receiving a great education.

"I am also very thankful to my father, mother, and girlfriend (Noeline Floody) who have supported me in everything I do and have tried to give me every opportunity to better myself in life."

As is the case of many successful athletes, Tormey learned the game at an early age. In Ireland, soccer's popularity is comparable to football in America.

"In Europe, it's a little different. Soccer's popularity is the same as basketball, football, or baseball is here in America. You play everyday as a kid. We would put two shirts down for a goal and played soccer right in the streets. When cars would come by, we would have to run and pick our shirts up so they would not get run over.

"When I was six or seven, I had to play in the streets against kids 10-12 years old. This made me tougher. I did not start playing organized league soccer until I was 12 or 13.

Tormey was also a basketball star in Ireland and had to make a tough decision as to which sport he wanted to pursue.

"When I was 15, I decided I wanted to represent my country and I had to choose between soccer and basketball. I was picked to represent Ireland in both sports on the under-16 teams, and I played on both teams for one year. After that year, I realized that I had to make a decision between them and be dedicated to one sport, so I chose soccer."

The All-American striker, who scored four goals against Presbyterian College last season, has adapted to the American lifestyle and hopes the experience will help him in future endeavors.

"In Ireland, the culture trains and motivates you toward getting into the real world and getting a job right away after only a few years of school. The American society is much different. You cannot go anywhere here without a college degree. The Clemson experience has definitely helped me prepare for my future."

As far as future plans, Tormey has many options and he may even remain in the United States.

"I hope to have a choice to make between living in Ireland or America after I earn my degree at Clemson. I could be happy in either place because I feel at home at both locations. My experience here at Clemson has opened up an entirely new world to me. I would like to use my business management degree to stay in sports and recreation. I would love to go into coaching or work in a sports program like the YMCA.

"An education opens up the option to go almost anywhere you wish in America," says Tormey.

Aside from playing soccer and studying, Pearse Tormey is also enthusiastic about teaching the game of soccer, as he served as a coach to local youths at a league in nearby Anderson last spring. In his spare time, he was also an administrator for the Anderson YMCA Youth Soccer program.

Head Soccer Coach Dr. I.M. Ibrahim agrees that Tormey is a very dedicated individual.

"Pearse had an outstanding junior year. He has a tremendous determination to be successful. He is an outstanding humble and hard working striker. He is always just so eager to succeed on and off the field."

Tormey has adjusted well to American society and the other sports here like football. In fact, he tried out for the Clemson football team one spring but decided his ability was best suited for soccer.

Actually, he found American football quite odd at first glance. "The first American football game I ever went to was here as a freshman. I remember sitting on the hill and falling asleep. I did not understand the offensive or defensive strategy until I went out for the football team. I found it like most sports, teamwork is needed for success. Everyone has a role to contribute."

In anything he attempts, Pearse Tormey understands that intangibles such as desire, dedication and the proper attitude are needed to be successful in any role—sports or life.

Tormey was an All-American as a junior, just the ninth Tiger Soccer player honored as an underclassman.

Can't Beat The Real Thing.

ACADEMIC LEARNING CENTER
CLEMSON UNIVERSITY

Ground was broken last winter on Clemson's $2.5 million Academic Learning Center. The facility, located near the center of campus, is expected to open in early 1991.

The 1980s proved to be a landmark era for Clemson football. The Tigers had the fifth best winning percentage in college football for that time period, and only two programs lost fewer games, Miami and Nebraska. It will be remembered as the decade Clemson moved to the upper echelon, the elite. Let's review some of the more memorable games during the last decade.

November 22, 1980

Clemson 27, South Carolina 6

This proved to be the start of something big...and orange, as Clemson came out in orange pants for the first time ever. South Carolina entered the game with a bowl bid in hand and a number-14 national ranking. Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers rushed for 168 yards, but could not get into the Clemson endzone. Willie Underwood, playing in his 47th and final game for the Tigers, had two interception returns for 101 yards, including a 37-yard interception return for a touchdown that broke the game open. Underwood had never picked off a pass in his Clemson career prior to that game. He also had 17 tackles on the day and was named National Player-of-the-Week by Sports Illustrated.

September 19, 1981

Clemson 13, Georgia 3

In front of one of the most enthusiastic crowds of the decade, Clemson faced defending national champion Georgia in Death Valley. The Tigers were unranked heading into the contest, while Herschel Walker and the Bulldogs were ranked fourth. Clemson's defense, led by six players who would later start in the NFL, forced a record nine Georgia turnovers and held the Dogs out of the endzone. Walker ended the game with 111 yards, but like Rogers, never scored in his career against Clemson. Perry Tuttle caught an eight-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter for the only TD of the day. The victory vaulted Clemson into the top 20 for the first time in the national championship season. It was the only regular season loss of Herschel Walker's three-year career at Georgia.

November 7, 1981

Clemson 10, North Carolina 8

This game received quite a bit of pregame hype as it marked the first (and still only) game pitting two top 10 ACC teams. Clemson entered the contest ranked second in the nation, while the Tar Heels were eighth. It was a close battle in every category from first downs (17-16 in Clemson's favor) to total offense (263-254 in North Carolina's favor). The game was decided when Jeff Bryant pounced on a late North Carolina lateral to give Clemson possession. Many players thought it was a forward pass, but the alert Bryant recovered to keep Clemson's record unblemished.

January 1, 1982

Clemson 22, Nebraska 15

Clemson won its first national championship in any sport by defeating a fourth-ranked Nebraska team, 22-15. Freshman Donald Igwebuike, who is still in the NFL with the Minnesota Vikings, kicked three field goals to pace the Tiger attack. Clemson held Nebraska to 256 yards in total offense even though the Cornhuskers had a backfield of future Heisman Trophy winner Mike Rozier and current All-Pro (San Francisco 49ers) Roger Craig. Homer Jordan completed 11-22 passes and had 180 yards in total offense in leading Clemson to its most celebrated victory in history, never mind just the decade. Clemson was the recipient of every national championship award, Danny Ford was named National Coach-of-the-Year and five Tigers were chosen to various All-America teams.

November 13, 1982

Clemson 24, Maryland 22

Clemson won another battle of top 20 ACC teams. Using two quarterbacks (Mike Eppley and Homer Jordan), Clemson jumped off to a 14-0 lead behind Cliff Austin and Chuck McSwain, two future NFL players. Maryland came back strong with 15 points in the fourth period. With the score 24-22 and Boomer Esiason leading the Terps goalward, Billy Davis intercepted a pass to pull out the victory over the 18th-ranked

4.	Oklahoma	90-26-2	.771

Terps. Clemson went on to defeat Wake Forest in Tokyo, Japan and claim the ACC title, but the win over the Terps was pivotal.

November 5, 1983

Clemson 16, North Carolina 3

An unranked Clemson team soundly stopped a number-10 North Carolina team in Chapel Hill. Mike Eppley, who would finish third in the nation in passing efficiency, was his ever efficient self, hitting 10-14 passes, including a six-yard TD strike to K.D. Dunn. North Carolina gained just 111 yards rushing, while Stacy Driver had 98 yards in 18 carries to pace the Tigers. Bob Paulling, who was All-ACC in football and baseball at Clemson, had three field goals to keep Clemson in front the entire afternoon. Clemson fans celebrated the victory by taking some of the Kenan Stadium bleachers home with them.

November 12, 1983

Clemson 52, Maryland 27

Clemson faced an 11th-ranked and once beaten Maryland team in Death Valley in a circus-like atmosphere. In the inaugural "Spirit Blitz", Clemson fans released 363,729 balloons as the Tigers ran down the hill to establish a new mark in the Guinness Book of Records. Some of the balloons landed as far away as Laurinburg, NC. On the field, Mike Eppley hit 11-16 passes for 194 yards and three touchdowns. Clemson jumped out to a 42-7 lead in the third period and could have beaten many pro teams this day. Kevin Mack, playing in his final home game, rushed for a career high 186 yards in 30 attempts, including a 42-yard run with just one shoe on his final carry in Death Valley.

September 20, 1986

Clemson 31, Georgia 28

If a poll of Clemson fans ask the question, who was the most clutch player in Clemson history, David Treadwell would win by a large plurality. Six times in his career he won or tied games within the last three minutes of the game. His most memorable boot might have been at Georgia in 1986 when his 46-yard field goal on the last play of the game beat the Dogs. Clemson gained 428 yards in total offense in a game uncharacteristic of the Clemson-Georgia rivalry. Terrence

Jeff Davis (45) and Andy Headen (12) were two members of Clemson's stingy defense of 1981. Here Davis recovered a fumble in Clemson's National Championship clinching win over Nebraska.

Flagler was outstanding with 90 yards rushing and 58 more in receiving, while Rodney Williams racked up 201 yards in total offense. Norman Haynes, a native of Athens, led Clemson with 14 tackles. John Phillips, now on the Clemson coaching staff, had 10 knockdown blocks from his offensive guard position.

December 27, 1986

Clemson 27, Stanford 21

Clemson scored 27 points in the first half and then held on to defeat the Cardinal and win its first bowl game since 1981. Rodney Williams was the MVP as he connected on 12-19 passes for 135 yards and also ran for a touchdown. Stanford came back behind three TDs by Brad Muster, but the Clemson defense, led by Henry Carter, stopped Stanford's last drive. Carter had a career-high 13 tackles for the game.

September 19, 1987

Clemson 21, Georgia 20

In another heart-stopping rendition of this series, Clemson again defeated Georgia with a last-second field goal. This time, David Treadwell had two seconds to spare as his 21-yard field goal set off another Clemson celebration. Clemson trailed by five points with six minutes left. A Rusty Seyle punt was downed at the Georgia one by Chinedu Ohan. Two plays later James Jackson was stopped in the endzone by James Lott and Gene Beasley. Clemson got the ball back after the free kick and drove 53 yards to the winning field goal. Freshman Terry Allen had 35 of those yards on the ground. Norman Haynes and Gene Beasley each had 12 tackles to key the defense.

January 1, 1988

Clemson 35, Penn State 10

Clemson handed Penn State its worst bowl loss ever behind an offense that gained over 200 yards passing and 200 yards rushing. Rodney Williams was the MVP for the second straight year as he connected on 15-24 for 214 yards. Keith Jennings caught seven passes for 110 yards, while Tracy Johnson scored three touchdowns on the ground. Clemson gained 285 yards on the ground. Dorian Marable was the top defensive player as the sophomore had five tackles, including one for loss and also had a 46-yard interception return that changed the game's momentum. Penn State had just 12 first downs and rushed for 111 yards.

November 12, 1988

Clemson 49, Maryland 25

Clemson clinched its fifth ACC crown of the decade with its highest scoring fourth quarter of the eighties. Clemson scored 28 points in just nine offensive plays in the final stanza to break open a close game at Byrd Stadium. The Tigers gained 512 yards in total offense, including 373 yards rushing. Gary Cooper scored two touchdowns on reverses that totaled 72 yards, the first time a Clemson wide receiver ever scored two TDs rushing in a single game. Levon Kirkland played the game of his life with 13 tackles, three tackles for loss and an interception.

January 2, 1989

Clemson 13, Oklahoma 6

Clemson moved into the final top 10 of the AP poll with a victory over Barry Switzer, then the winningest active coach in college football. Clemson held Oklahoma without a touchdown and to just 116 yards rushing in becoming the first ACC team to beat Oklahoma in 17 tries. Clemson took the lead in the fourth period on a Terry Allen run. Allen was named the MVP, but he received great sustenance from Jesse Hatcher on the Clemson defense. Hatcher had nine tackles, an 18-yard sack and a caused fumble. The game came down to the final play, but Dexter Davis deflected a desperation pass by Oklahoma's Jamelle Holieway.

September 9, 1989

Clemson 34, Florida State 23

Clemson exploded for 21 points in the first quarter and shocked the hometown Seminoles. Terry Allen scored on a 73-yard run just before halftime to give Clemson a 28-10 halftime lead. Wayne Simmons also had a 73-yard score, this time with an interception return. Clemson did not have a turnover for the seventh time in the last 15 games, and the triumph broke Florida State's 10-game home winning streak. Allen ended the game with 130 yards rushing, while quarterback Chris Morocco was 8-9 for 134 yards. FSU scored with just five seconds left to make the score respectable. The Seminoles have not lost since and ended the season ranked third in the final AP poll.

Jesse Hatcher had the best game of his career in his final contest with the Tigers, a 13-6 win over Oklahoma.

Joe Henderson's score gave Clemson a leg up on a fourth straight bowl win, a 27-7 victory over West Virginia.

November 18, 1989

Clemson 45, South Carolina 0

A national TV audience witnessed a Clemson team that clicked on all phases. It was the second largest margin of victory for Clemson over South Carolina in 87 years and the first Tiger shutout of the Gamecocks since 1959. Terry Allen had 97 yards in the first half, his last half of football for the Tigers. Clemson gained 466 yards in total offense and held South Carolina to just 36 yards passing. The Tigers had a season high 355 yards rushing and held the Gamecocks to a season low 155 yards in total offense.

December 30, 1989

Clemson 27, West Virginia 7

Clemson's senior class broke the existing record for wins in a four year period by an ACC team with the victory over West Virginia, a team that had played for the national championship just one year earlier. Major Harris was hassled all night by the Clemson defense as the Tigers forced him to fumble three times. Chester McGlockton clinched the victory when he sacked Harris, then recovered the ball in the endzone for a Tiger touchdown. Levon Kirkland was the game's MVP with nine tackles and a sack. Joe Henderson led the ground game with 92 yards in 22 attempts, while Chris Morocco had a career-high 65 yards rushing.

Emergency Services

By Christine Kelly
Genentech, Inc.

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

Most emergencies occurring at the stadium result from pre-existing medical conditions. Bring your medical identification card or wear medical identification jewelry. Moderation is the key with dress, food, beverage intake and physical exertion. Our two more frequent serious medical problems at football games are allergic reactions to insect stings and heart attacks.

INSECT STINGS: Common at outdoor events. Treat immediately with ice. Seek medical advice. If allergic, carry a kit from your physician with you.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A HEART ATTACK: The symptoms of a heart attack vary, but the usual warning signs are:

1. Uncomfortable pressure, fullness, squeezing or pain in the center of your chest lasting for two minutes or more.

2. Pain spreading to the shoulders, neck, jaw, arms, or back.
3. Dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea and/or shortness of breath.

Expect a Denial

Frequently heart attack victims deny they're having a heart attack. The event is frightening or they don't want the embarrassment of a false alarm. Therefore, they delay getting help by ignoring their symptoms or rationalizing, "it's just indigestion."

Find out what's really wrong. Prompt response can dramatically increase chances of survival and recovery.

New therapies have been developed that can minimize heart damage and save lives if treatment begins within the first few hours of symptom onset. "Time is muscle." Get help or get to a hospital immediately.

NOTE: Signal numbers 25 and 26 are for future expansion.

We've cleaned up more towns than Wyatt Earp.

This may come as a shock, but the average American home is loaded with hazardous wastes.

The fact is, a lot of that seemingly harmless stuff we've all got lying around the garage or the basement could be incredibly dangerous.

Like the old jars of paint from the kids' model airplane years. The pesticides from some long-forgotten experiment in home gardening. And the brake fluid and motor oil from the days when do-it-yourself seemed like a good idea.

The memories may fade away, but the hazardous chemicals won't.

However, in city-after-progressive-city, people are waking up to the fact that we can't continue to treat our homes like hazardous waste dumps, and we can't continue to throw toxic chemicals out with the rest of the garbage.

In hundreds of cases, Laidlaw Environmental Services has been called in to help communities manage a series of Household Hazardous Waste Collection Days.

Which makes a lot of sense, because Laidlaw Environmental Services is one of the nation's leading companies in the management, movement, treatment and disposal of chemical wastes. And one of the leading consultants in helping people clean up their cities.

So, if you'd like to know more about establishing a household cleanup program for your community, give us a call at Laidlaw Environmental Services today.

And we'll help you get the troublemakers out of town by sundown.

You make the Call!

QUESTION: You and your friends are tailgating before or after the game. A prospect walks by. Can you talk to him about Clemson University, it's academic reputation, or anything? Better yet, can you show your hospitality by offering a soft drink or a sandwich?

ANSWER: The answer to both questions is NO. It is an NCAA violation to talk to prospects about Clemson, or offer any food, drink or other entertainment.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

MY DEGREE GOT ME THE INTERVIEW. ARMY ROTC GOT ME THE JOB.

Things got pretty competitive for this job. I'm sure my college degree and good grades kept me in the running. But in the end it was the leadership and management experience I got through Army ROTC that won them over.

You can begin to develop impressive leadership skills with an Army ROTC elective. Register now without obligation.

ARMY ROTC

THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE.

ALMA MATER

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness

Where the Tigers play

Here the sons of dear old Clemson,

Reign Supreme away.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph

And with all our might

That the Tigers' roar may echo

O'er the mountain height.

In a year that saw many changes in the Clemson University Athletic Department, one thing remained a constant; the success of IPTAY. Despite the destruction and financial loss caused by Hurricane Hugo, as well as an increase in the minimum IPTAY donation from $30 to $100, faithful Clemson supporters were still able to make this another record-breaking year for IPTAY. As the nation's largest fundraising organization, IPTAY was able to raise $5.8 million towards its commitment to the student-athlete. Due to these efforts both on the part of the IPTAY staff, and the generosity and support of the Clemson community, Clemson was one of only two schools in the nation (the only other being Illinois) to have teams participate in a bowl game (1989 Mazda Gator Bowl), the NCAA Basketball Tournament (advanced to the Sweet Sixteen in the East Regional), and the NCAA Baseball Tournament (Central Region).

Clemson was the only school to gain at least one win in each of these post-season events. Clemson also produced 82 first-team All-ACC athletes, 20 All-Americans, captured three ACC Tournament Championships, and won two regular-season ACC Championships, including its first-ever in men's basketball. Nine teams finished in the final Top 25 of their respective sports.

The success of the Clemson athletic program comes during a time when the integrity and accountability of the academic progress of student-athletes are receiving national attention. IPTAY has been a large part of this success by being committed to the student-athlete.

IPTAY is recognized as one of the oldest, largest and most successful athletic fundraising organizations in America. IPTAY was the first athletic fundraising organization in the country to top the two, three, four, and five-million dollar marks in annual donations. The 1989-90 academic year marks the 26th consecutive year of increased contributions to the IPTAY scholarship fund.

In 1934, Dr. Rupert Fike founded IPTAY with a very simple purpose in mind: IPTAY provides funds for athletic scholarships. Clemson continues to be one of the few schools in the nation to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for 18 men's and women's varsity sports. Since 1934, IPTAY has provided scholarships for over 5,000 student-athletes, trainers, and managers.

Allison Dalton is the leader of America's top athletic fundraising organization.

Contributions by IPTAY are responsible for many of Clemson's outstanding facilities.

IPTAY currently provides the funds for tutorial programs staffed by trained academic advisors assisted by graduate and undergraduate students. This support is intended to assure that all student-athletes are given the opportunity to earn their degree while participating in athletics.

IPTAY is currently playing an intricate role in the Campaign for Clemson, a long-range fundraising project of the University. IPTAY has been asked to raise $2.5 million of the University's overall goal of 62 million dollars for the construction and development of the Learning Center, a new academic building on East Campus. The funds for this project come via IPTAY donors and IPTAY has already raised over one million dollars for the project.

The Learning Center is presently on schedule to open in the spring of 1991 and its construction is well under way. The Learning Center is a 29,000 square-foot facility and it will house the tutoring and advising programs for student-athletes. The building will contain various-sized study and tutoring rooms to be used for individual study as well as for small group instruction.

Computer facilities, an office/reception area for the advising staff and an auditorium will also be contained in the center.

The generous support of 18,200 loyal donors to IPTAY has allowed the organization to go beyond the funding of athletic scholarships by providing the financial basis for many of the unparalleled athletic facilities at Clemson.

Since 1978, IPTAY has provided the funding for $32 million of capital improvements in the area of athletics. These improvements include the expansion of the football stadium, the newly renovated baseball facility (Tiger Field), the indoor tennis facility, the soccer stadium, the new outdoor track, the weight room, the new golf practice area, a new cross country course, and the IPTAY/Ticket office facility.

IPTAY is also proud to provide funding for the Tiger Band. Each year IPTAY budgets financial support for travel, uniforms and equipment for this integral part of the Clemson athletic program.

While IPTAY is primarily concerned with athletic fundraising, the mission of Clemson University has not been overlooked. IPTAY was created to help meet the need for more academic scholarships for non-athletes who are highly qualified academically. This scholarship endowment is funded by certain company gifts which are made as a result of employee contributions to IPTAY. In addition, the athletic department has made generous contributions to the endowment from athletic revenues.

The IPTAY Academic Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of any kind at Clemson, providing $1.38 million in funds, currently benefitting more than 50 students. IPTAY's support extends to all of the student body.

The tremendous success of IPTAY is due, in large part, to the organizational makeup which allows members to be as close to IPTAY as they are to their local IPTAY leadership. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY County chairman, and every county is allotted an IPTAY representative for every 35 members.

This year's IPTAY speaking circuit was highlighted by Clemson's new football coach, Ken Hatfield. A man of character and integrity, as well as a proven winner, Hatfield stressed the importance of IPTAY and its mission. Hatfield commented on his first impressions of IPTAY.

"The IPTAY organization and the people involved far surpassed the tremendous reputation that they had before I had arrived here. Allison Dalton, Bert Henderson, and Bob Mahony and all of the rest who are involved, organize and coordinate the program as well as I have seen. Every local meeting was precisely managed." Hatfield continued, "I guess the thing that stuck out most though, was the atmosphere of love and support for Clemson exhibited by all of the people I met."

IPTAY donors are kept up-to-date with Clemson athletics through the Orange and White. This is an official IPTAY publication which is distributed exclusively to IPTAY donors in appreciation of their support.

Clemson University will continue to be recognized and respected on the national level athletically and academically with the full support of IPTAY. IPTAY will continue to be successful because a loyal commitment to Clemson University is a way of life in the hearts of Clemson alumni and friends.

Each year Clemson's IPTAY fund raising organization honors a Clemson athlete by naming him or her the IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year. This award, which is one of the highest athletic honors at Clemson, is given to the Tiger athlete who not only has excelled in athletic competition, but in other areas as well.

"The IPTAY Board of Directors, which selects the award winner, considers this to be a highlight of the year," says Allison Dalton, executive secretary of IPTAY. "It gives the board an opportunity to express their appreciation to a Clemson student-athlete who has been truly representative of what we feel a student-athlete should be. The Clemson head coaches nominate the athletes and the board of directors of IPTAY decides by a consensus vote which athlete is most representative of an outstanding student-athlete. Although athletic ability is important, the board gives consideration to attitude, scholastic achievement, and all-around character.

Today, the Clemson athlete who will be honored as the 1989-90 IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year will be Lisa Dillard, a member of the Tiger women's track team.

"I was very surprised when I found out that I won the award," says Dillard. "There are so many great student-athletes here at Clemson and I am very proud to be chosen as the IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year."

Dillard's achievements on the track make her one of the top women's sprinters in Clemson history. You might think that a sprinter who holds five school individual records and two conference meet records is competitive because of her tremendous God-given athletic ability. However, Dillard attributes hard work and mental preparation to be just as important to her success as the raw speed.

"I think a lot of the talent a track athlete has is God-given, but today you cannot make many mistakes in a race. A large portion of our sport is mental preparation. When one/one hundredth of a second is the difference between first and third, anything and everything helps."

Through her God-given talent and hard work, Dillard has been outstanding in her first two years at Clemson University. She is a member of four Clemson-record relay squads and was an All-American in two outdoor events in 1990, the 100 meters and 200 meters and in the 55 meters indoors, making her the first non-distance All-American in the history of the Clemson women's track program. The Tabbs, VA native set the Clemson school record for the 100 meters with an 11.48 clocking at the 1990 NCAA Championships at Durham, NC when she finished fourth in the nation. At the same meet, she finished seventh in the 200 meters with a time of 23.74.

Clemson women's track coach Wayne Coffman attributes Dillard's will to win as her biggest asset. "Lisa is one of the toughest competitors that I have ever been around," says Coffman of the three-time All-American. "When it comes time to run, she will be there and her will to win will take over. She is a tremendous athlete, but her competitive nature is what separates her from the rest of the field. She is also a tremendous team leader and an inspiration to the rest of the team."

"I just love to win," Dillard says. "I love to place myself among the best opponents in any field. It is sometimes hard for me to run in smaller races because I consider myself the best. My motivation there is to continue to be the best and not to let anyone take away my titles. I know that I am going to work hard, so if they want to beat me they are going to have to work harder. When I run against people like Evelyn Ashford and other world-class sprinters, it is not hard to get motivated."

In Dillard's opinion, you have to break up the "boredom of running everyday," with goals. "Running can get old real fast, so goals are very important," says Dillard, who was recently nominated for the Mary Garber Award, which honors the top female athlete in the Atlantic Coast Conference. "I try to set obtainable goals and when I reach those goals, I set new ones. Track can become redundant, so goals are very important. You have to give yourself something to run for everyday. Without the proper motivation and mental preparation, there is no way to maintain the edge over your competition. I think this attitude is important in academics as well as athletics."

Dillard actually got involved in track as a result of an unfortunate accident. "I was always playing softball as a child. I really thought I was good and had a future at it until one day I got hit in the mouth with a bat. I decided that softball wasn't for me. I felt like if I moved my concentration, I could compete in track. Even throughout high school, I thought about basketball first and track second. I never really thought I had a chance to be a good track athlete. But some big colleges started recruiting me so I figured I might have a chance to run in a big program."

Once Dillard has completed her track career, it is sure that she will succeed in life because of her incredible desire to be the very best.

Dillard was named IPTAY Athlete-of-the-Year, the first women's track athlete to win the award.

Tradition. Prior to this afternoon's game against Appalachian State, Clemson University is honoring two of its very special traditions: IPTAY and Parents.

To kickoff the day's celebration, there will be a pre-game introduction of the IPTAY officers. Those being recognized include Eddie Dalton, President; Edgar McGee, Vice President; Thurmon McLamb, Secretary/Treasurer; Buddy Putman, Bob Dye, Bill Alexander, Lynn Campbell, Billy Fort, and John Tice. The officers of the IPTAY Student Advisory Board will also be introduced. They are Bobbitt Jenkins, President; Jackie O'Brien, Vice President; and Leigh Findley, Secretary/Treasurer. The other members of the board are Cary Bailey, Ben Bentley, Robbie Burgess, Amy Burns, Scott Curry, Robert Fletcher, Renee Hardee, Tammy Holcombe, Rainey Josey, Jay League, Stephen Palmer, Michel Smoak, Derrick Pierce, Amy Uhl, and David Chamberlain.

The IPTAY Student Advisory Board serves as a liaison between Clemson's student body and the members of IPTAY. ISAB seeks to relay students' thoughts and opinions to IPTAY officials and to educate Clemson students on IPTAY's purpose and endeavors. By informing the two groups of each other's activities and viewpoints. ISAB acts as a unification medium between students and IPTAY.

The IPTAY Academic Fund is presently the largest scholarship endowment of any kind at Clemson, providing $1.38 million in funds, currently benefitting more than 50 students. IPTAY's support extends to all of the student body.

Following the introductions the spotlight will then shine on another Clemson tradition: Tiger Band. No Clemson football game would be the same without the customary pre-game performance by the Tiger Band. "Sock it to 'Em" and "TIGER RAG!" begin the show. As the band scripts TIGERS, a charter member of IPTAY, will dot the "I". The invocation will then be given by Rev. Steve Price of the Presbyterian Student Association.

The Clemson University Chorus will then accompany the Tiger Band in a performance of "America The Beautiful" directed by assistant band director Mark Greer. Dr. Richard E. Goodstein will conduct "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the Pershing Rifle Company C4 presents the colors under the direction of Cadet Craig Ramsey. Choral director Dr. Dan Rash will lead the group in their finale-the Clemson Alma Mater.

Today's halftime show will be a real treat for musical enthusiasts as both bands will be presenting selections from Leonard Bernstein's Westside Story. Appalachian State's band is under the direction of Dr. Joe Brashier and will play a medley of four selections from the musical. Tiger Band will follow with "Mambo", "America", and will conclude with "Somewhere". But no halftime show could be complete without Tiger Band's final song - "The Song that Shakes the Southland"-TIGER RAG!"

Today is Parents' Day at Clemson University. To most parents that means a fried chicken and potato salad tailgating celebration followed by experiencing Clemson football with the family. But to Marion Crooks every Clemson football game is parents' day.

In 1966, senior drum major Marion Crooks led Clemson's all-male marching band. The band had two female twirlers, but performances were based on a more precise, militaristic style.

Tiger Band has changed a lot since then. The performances are now designed to entertain audiences. The musical selections are more upbeat and female talents perform in every position including drum major.

There is, however, one important similarity between the two bands. While Marion Crooks led the 1966 band, his son Brab Crooks is one of this year's Tiger Band drum majors. Marion Crooks is delighted with his son's achievement. "I am extremely proud of Brab," said Marion. "Each time he steps on the field I feel anxious, remembering how I felt.

"I am thankful that he has the opportunity to use his talents. I didn't push him, being a drum major just comes naturally to him."

Brab does not mind following in his father's footsteps. "He has always encouraged me to do whatever I wanted," said Brab. "I really wanted to be drum major. The fact that he was a drum major here too makes it that much more special."

Brab Crooks is a sophomore majoring in marketing. He graduated from Newberry High School where, just like his father, he was drum major. Bennie Gaskins from Camden, SC, is another Tiger drum major. The senior in his second year with the band is a ceramic engineering major. The third drum major is Joy Williams from Travelers Rest, SC. She is a junior majoring in mathematical sciences.

Tiger Band is one of Clemson University's greatest traditions. And, if the past is any prediction of the future, you can expect to see Tiger Band continue to grow for generations to come.

It doesn't take a person too long — say maybe five minutes — to come to the conclusion that Frank Howard is dumb like a fox.

Really, the myth of being a country bumpkin probably started around Barlow Bend in Alabama maybe three-quarters of a century ago. He says he left his birth place walking barefooted on a barbed wire fence with a wildcat under each arm.

Now, that might seem a little bit far fetched, but don't sell Howard down the river too quick. He didn't go to the University of Alabama because of his good looks, he was on an academic scholarship.

But had it not been for that scholarship given by the Birmingham News, Howard might have ended up as a chicken farmer he had thought about being. And really, the scholarship came about one might say by default. The original recipient of the grant decided not to return to Alabama his last year and it was given to Howard.

Wallace Wade was head coach at Alabama in those days and on his staff was a coach by the name of Russ Cohen. He recruited Howard to play for the Crimson Tide and would later be on Howard's staff at Clemson for nine years, during which time the Tigers went to three bowls.

The story goes that Cohen went to Mobile to see Howard, and came back to Tuscaloosa to give his assessment to Wade.

"How big is this boy Howard,?" Wade asked Cohen. "He'll go about 175 (playing guard) and pretty close to six feet tall," answered Cohen. "I'm not so sure that he's not a better baseball player (catcher) than he is in football," Cohen added.

Wade dug a little deeper and asked, "How fast can this boy run,?" To which Cohen answered:

"About as fast forward as I can backwards." That really turned Wade off and he probably started thinking about some other prospects.

But Dame Fortune was on Howard's side and the Birmingham News scholarship saved him from being a chicken farmer.

We know that the story on Howard's recruitment is true because we remember interviewing Cohen (as sports editor of The Tiger) when he joined the Clemson staff and he told us that sequence.

Howard recalls with his size and speed one had to look a long ways down the depth chart to find his name — say about the 12th freshman team. He said Wade believed in numbers.

After being knocked around several days by the varsity, Howard decided there wasn't too much glamour to this college football. When it was announced at practice that the varsity would scrimmage the freshmen in 11 days, Howard decided to take action.

He really started working hard, and was advancing a team a day moving up the freshman ladder. On the last day, he was on the second freshman team, but he was still two teams away from making the varsity. However, when that announced scrimmage took place, Howard was on the varsity.

Asked how he got past the last player on the first freshman team, Howard said: "I just talked my way past him."

Cohen was on the sidelines at Clemson when Howard called what he says was "one play I'll always remember."

It happened in the 1949 Gator Bowl against Missouri. Clemson was leading, 24-23, and as evidenced by the score, neither team had been able to stop the other. Clemson had a fourth-down-and-two at the Missouri 41 with 95 seconds left.

Howard sent the play in, and Cohen, who coached the secondary, asked what play he called: "(Fred) Cone over guard," Howard said. Cohen retorted: "If he makes it, Skipper, you'll be a hero. If he don't, they're liable to ride both of us out of town on a rail tarred and feathered."

Cone hit into the line and it was like he hit the Great Wall of China. But he bounced off, slid outside and gained six yards for a first down. And the Tigers of Clemson were able to run the clock out and defeat the Show Me Tigers, 24-23.

It was Cone's suggestion earlier in the fourth quarter that Jack Miller try a field goal with a fourth-and-nine situation at the Missouri 15. Miller booted a 32-yarder, which incidentally, was the only field goal Clemson kicked all season.

Cone, Howard says, was the best player he ever coached, and he was recruited by Howard's sister. Actually, the wolves were howling at Howard after the 1947 season, but Cone as a sophomore led the Tigers to an 11-0 season in 1948 and Howard was home free.

The school's first 2,000-yard rusher, Cone had never played high school football. Howard asked his sister how she knew he was so good. "I saw him jump off a diving board once," she said. Sounds like she would have made somebody a good recruiting coordinator.

All head coaches get hundreds of letters about 'good players' and some of them are. Howard recalls getting a letter once telling him about a player whose great, great granddaddy was a U.S. Senator and a distant cousin was former Supreme Court justice. Howard wrote the man back and said: "I just want a boy to play tackle. I don't want him for breeding purposes."

When Howard was an assistant coach, head man Jess Neely was told about this 200-pound plus player in Charleston, then a hard, all-day drive from Clemson. That 200-pound size was few and far between back then. Only three players on both teams weighed that much in the Cotton Bowl game against Boston College.

Neely sent Howard to Charleston to talk to this behemoth of a player. After finding the address, Howard knocked at the door and this teenager answered. Howard asked to speak to so-and-so, calling the player's name. "That's my name," the teenager said. Howard was looking at a scrawny, 165-pound kid in amazement.

He said, "Son, I'm selling the Saturday Evening Post, would you like to subscribe for a year?"

Maybe that's the reason Howard didn't last but 30 years as a head coach.

Many stories of Howard and his players will be forthcoming in the new book — The Legend — scheduled to be released in December.
